

Hey Connor, I wanted to tell you this yesterday but you're busier than ever today I imagine so I'll say this now. I haven't spoken to Bahar and my procedural and constitutional concerns of executive overreach are difficult to address in an hour and it's ~~too~~ ^a little late in the game to talk about it with her since briefs are due tonight at 8pm. I've said this from the beginning, but my attentiveness has always been founded in the spirit of our rules, about what I feel is the right thing to do, and I feel that any and all concerns of mine regarding executive overreach would truly be ~~addressed~~ ^{appeased} ~~by~~ by not vetoing. The disquiet issue is of my greatest concern right now, next to this upcoming case, and I know you are not a president that overreaches all the time, very infrequently actually, which I've been happy about how fair you have been as a president, so I'll just say again by not vetoing, I will settle because this would demonstrate something of greater magnitude, diligence and humility than this case ~~we~~ we are dealing with.

I don't want this to factor into your decision, you should make this decision on your own with your own conscience, but this is something that I will do if you stand behind your Senators and demonstrate everything that would appease any and all of my concerns.

Thank you for the chat yesterday and I ~~hope you~~ wish you the best in your deliberations
